A Leader in Disability Rights

The Arc is the largest national community-based organization advocating for and with people with intellectual and developmental disabilities (IDD) and serving them and their families. We work tirelessly to uphold our vision that every individual and family living with IDD has access to the information, advocacy, and skills they need to support their full inclusion and participation in the community throughout their lifetimes.

With hundreds of state and local chapters across the country, The Arc's chapter network is on the frontlines from first breath to last to ensure that people with IDD have the support and services they need to be fully engaged in their communities. Find a chapter near you.

History of The Arc

More than 70 years ago, families refused to accept that their children were less than worthy of inclusion because of their disabilities. Driven by their collective desire to raise their children at home - not in an institution - and for those children to have access to an education like everybody else - The Arc came to life.

In 1950, little was known about IDD. There were virtually no community-based programs or activities to assist in the development and care of people with IDD or to support their families. Doctors told parents that the best place for their children with disabilities was in an institution, hidden away from their communities. But The Arc's founding families wanted more.

We are grateful to those families that took a stand for equality, and for the many that followed and continue the work.

We are energized by the self-advocacy movement and all the individuals with IDD who bring forward their powerful leadership, advocacy, and vision for a more inclusive future.

And we are thankful for our many allies.

In a diverse and growing disability rights movement, we need all hands on deck, because our job is far from over.

Our Mission

The Arc promotes and protects the human rights of people with intellectual and developmental disabilities and actively supports their full inclusion and participation in the community throughout their lifetimes.

Our Impact

With your help, we are working every day to build a future of inclusive work, play, worship, community, travel, and more.

Our Core Values

Human Dignity: People with IDD have human dignity. The lives of people with IDD have value.

Personhood: People with IDD have varying strengths, abilities, and interests. Each person is unique.

Choice: People with IDD can make decisions about their lives. People with IDD should be supported to do so as requested or needed.

Rights: People with IDD have human and civil rights, which must be protected.

Community: People with IDD are part of and contribute to the fabric of society. Everyone benefits when people with IDD are present and participate.

Support: People with IDD have differing support needs. Society must support people with IDD to achieve their full potential. Society should also help families who provide support for loved ones with IDD.

Equity: Society must remove barriers and correct injustices that limit opportunities for people with IDD. Extra action is needed to help people with IDD and their families who face other forms of bias or discrimination.

Diversity: Human diversity is beautiful and powerful. We celebrate, honor and seek to understand the difference in our identities and life experiences.

Our Guiding Principles

Advocacy First: The Arc is a disability rights organization. We work with and for people with IDD, their families, and our communities to achieve change. We use the power of advocacy to improve the lives of people with IDD.

Stronger Together: The Arc unites our chapters to advance the human rights and wellbeing of people with IDD and their families. The success of our advocacy depends on the strength of the chapter network. We are stronger together.

Quality and Excellence: The Arc provides programs and services that people with IDD and their families want and depend upon in their daily lives. We strive for quality and excellence in all we do.

Shared Leadership: The Arc actively engages people with IDD and their family members in leading and guiding our work. These voices are the most important. The strong partnership between volunteers, experts, and the people we serve is critical to our mission.

Consensus: The Arc leads by building consensus around a clear vision for the future of people with IDD. We unite and mobilize people behind goals and strategies that will make that vision a reality.

For All People with IDD: The Arc works with and for ALL people with IDD. While our work also helps all people with disabilities, our priority is people with IDD and their families.

Partnership: The Arc works in coalition with other disability, civil rights, and human services groups. We value joint effort and step up to provide leadership when needed.

Open and Accountable: The Arc is accountable to people with IDD, their families, donors, and the public. We are committed to honesty and transparency.

Identity and Language: The Arc respects the rights of people with IDD to decide if or when to self-identify and the language they use when doing so.

Wings for All

Wings for All® is an airport rehearsal program designed specifically for individuals with Autism or other intellectual disabilities.

Families are given the opportunity to practice entering the airport, going through TSA security, and locating their gate area. Once they pass TSA security, families are encouraged to explore the airport and become familiar with the environment before boarding the plane. A small reception is held for all participants with light snacks and refreshments.

Wings for All® is a national program of The Arc of the US.

ALERT Program

A.L.E.R.T.

Autism Law & Emergency Response Training

Is your department prepared to serve individuals with autism in an emergency situation?

The Arc of South Carolina's ALERT program provides training for First Responders to help them recognize an individual who might be on the autism spectrum, learn effective communication methods while providing practical skills and tools necessary to help reduce or eliminate a potentially dangerous situation during an emergency.

The ALERT program will also teach you...

- How to understand the challenges individuals with autism spectrum disorder may experience during an emergency situation
- How a person with autism spectrum disorder may respond in a search and rescue situation and what to do to help
- How to treat individuals with autism as a patient and how to provide care
- Communication strategies to help alleviate the stress of an emergency, how to de-escalate a meltdown, and much more!

Interested in becoming an ALERT trainer? Every training is led by a First Responder who has a family member on the autism spectrum or some other close relationship to autism. Email us at thearc@arcsc.org or call us at (803) 748-5020 for information on how to schedule a training session for your department or how to become an ALERT trainer with The Arc of South Carolina. Participants may be eligible for Continuing Education Credits.

Supported Decision Making

The SC Supported Decision Making Project is a collaboration between Able SC, The Arc of South Carolina, Family Connection of South Carolina, and Protection and Advocacy for People with Disabilities, Inc. It began on July 1, 2016 and is funded by the South Carolina Developmental Disabilities Council. The SC Supported Decision Making Project seeks to increase awareness of Supported Decision Making in South Carolina and promote alternatives to guardianship that allow individuals with disabilities to retain control of their lives. The Project's activities include:

- Creating Informational Materials
- Family Trainings
- Professional Trainings
- Family Counseling Sessions
- Systemic Advocacy

Policy & Advocacy

arcsc.org/policyandadvocacy

For nearly 70 years, The Arc has been at the forefront of the fight for the civil rights and inclusion of people with intellectual and developmental disabilities (IDD) and their families, playing a lead role in major victories in civil rights, community living, education, income security, and other important issues.

We have fought to close institutions and make life in the community possible, we have opened the school doors for students with disabilities to be included in the classroom alongside peers without disabilities, and we have advocated for affordable health care access. We are at the table for every major public policy fight and advancement impacting the lives of people with disabilities. We still have work to do, but we know we can succeed with strong federal policy advocates working hand in hand with grassroots activists like you. Visit our Policy & Advocacy page to learn about the top issues we focus on in our fight for the civil rights of people with disabilities.

Call to Action!

arcsc.org/calltoaction

Make sure your lawmakers know how important it is to invest in disability supports and services NOW and to make critical updates to Supplemental Security Income (SSI) so that everyone can access the care they need and not have to live in poverty.

What is Disability Advocacy Day?

The South Carolina Partnership of Disability Organizations (SCPDO) is a coalition of organizations whose aim is to assure self-determination, independence, empowerment, integration and inclusion of children and adults with severe lifelong disabilities in all aspects of society. Collectively, we advocate for more than 500,000 people with severe, lifelong disabilities in South Carolina.

Disability Advocacy Day is a grassroots effort organized by advocacy organizations all across the state to educate our governor and legislators about the lives, challenges and needs of individuals with disabilities and their families.

We invite the public, lawmakers, and community partners to attend the Disability Advocacy Day celebration to bring about a call to action to unlock barriers to success and preserve services and supports for people with disabilities. We will gather on the first Wednesday in March, on the North grounds of the South Carolina State House. Events include a walk, a rally, and speeches by community partners, self-advocates, and others.

Every individual in the disability community has a unique story to tell whether a parent, sibling, professional, extended family member or supporter. Stories are a powerful advocacy tool. In many cases, storytelling is necessary to help give lawmakers an accurate picture of the reality of people's lives. It allows them to truly understand the challenges that families face so they can see how their decisions have a direct impact on their lives. When you share your story with your representatives, it helps them remember that when policy decisions are being made about people who have disabilities, it's affecting the lives of real people. By helping your legislator see what life looks like where you stand, you can help improve the conditions for everyone who has a disability, their families, and caregivers. Your story cannot be wrong; it is your own, personal experience, and your experience has value and meaning.

If you would like to know more about Disability Advocacy Day and how you can get involved, please email us at scpdoinfo@gmail.com.
